

□ CLICK HERE FOR ADVERTISEMENT RATES

Patrick Wood: Reflexive Law: New Legal System Driving Sustainable Development

0 0 0 0

by Elias Alias , November 2, 2015

—

Patrick Wood: Reflexive Law: New Legal System Driving Sustainable Development

San Pedro River, Hereford, Arizona

San Pedro River, Hereford, Arizona

Written by Patrick Wood and published at Technocracy dot News

—

Every society in history has been hinged on compatible systems of social structure, economics and politics. And, every unique society is regulated by a compatible legal system that settles all disputes between its citizens. In the Western world and especially in America, this is revered as the “Rule of Law”.

On August 26, 2014 the New York Times blasted out the headline, Obama Pursuing Climate Accord in Lieu of Treaty. In short, Obama was to use Executive Orders to entangle the U.S. in a global “treaty” on climate change, without consulting the U.S. Senate. However, the Constitution requires the Senate to vote on all treaties and the bar is high: It takes a two-third vote to approve.

To the globalist, the Constitution is out. The Rule of law has collapsed. Reflexive Law has surpassed it all. The balance of this article will show you how and why.

If you are saying “Huh?”, you had better read every word of this report and figure it out, because this might be the most important shard of evidence ever revealed about the wrenching transformation of American society.

Obama’s principal adviser and “negotiator” on this so-called climate accord was John Podesta, and this whole treaty-by-executive-order debacle can be laid squarely at his feet. Until just recently, Podesta was a member of the Trilateral Commission. He was Bill Clinton’s chief-of-staff in the 1990s and the original instigator of Executive Branch policy of using Executive Orders to bypass Congress on certain issues. Clinton, also a Trilateral member, created many such EO’s to side-step Congress, and Congress unfortunately let him get away with it.

Enough about Podesda. Just remember that he was the prime mover in what I am about to reveal.

The NYT article stated,

To sidestep that requirement [of a 2/3 Senate vote], President Obama’s climate negotiators are devising what they call a “politically binding” deal that would “name and shame” countries into cutting their emissions. The deal is likely to face strong objections from Republicans on Capitol Hill and from poor countries around the world, but negotiators say it may be the only realistic path.

(snip)

Please read entire article at Technocracy.News —

<http://technocracy.news/index.php/2015/10/23/reflexive-law-the-new-legal-system-driving-sustainable-development/>

Thank you,

Salute!

Elias Alias, editor

Categories: Academy-Sovereignty, All, Featured

Tags: Agenda 21, Patrick Wood, Sustainable Development, Technocracy

Comments

Write a Comment

Your e-mail address will not be published.

Required fields are marked *

Website

Your message..

Comment*

© 2015 Copyright Oath Keepers. All Rights reserved..