

T H U R S D A Y , I

The Cops Who Make My Christmas

The Cops Who Make My Christmas

While considering my many blessings of life this morning, Christmas, 2014, one blessing for which I'm most thankful is the vision of the good cops who are members in Oath Keepers, who support this organization because they want to see our message spread far and wide. Officer Rocky, for example, was photographed at the Bundy ranch in Nevada this past April, 2014. "Rocky" runs an Oath Keepers chapter in California and supports Oath Keepers projects, such as standing for the Bundy family against the hired guns of the BLM. Like any good cop, she paused to let me take her picture.

Officer Rocky At The Bundy Ranch

I want to take this moment to thank each of our Oath Keepers peace officers for bringing the gift of service to mankind while working in an increasingly difficult environment, both down at headquarters and out on the street.

You are the officers who kept in your hearts the basic ties to family and community and old-fashioned American values all the while you were going through the academy's training and conditioning. You went into the work to "protect and serve", and you did so because you value all that is good in life.

-

You are awake; you are aware; and you are alert to the condition of our nation at present -- and yet you keep a smile and a friendly disposition at work and at home. You look for the beauty in life and love, and you know in your heart you're here to protect those treasures, and you do your best every day to do just that.

-

I do not think Oath Keepers gives you enough recognition, and while thinking of you this morning as a blessing to Oath Keepers, my New Years resolution is to make sure all of our loyal Oath Keepers peace officers know you are appreciated. Not just for supporting the Oath Keepers mission; but also for being outstanding human beings in a tough world at a tough time. You give me hope and restore my faith, because you stand for human decency and codes of honor.

But more than that, you empower our mission greatly, and we at Oath Keepers appreciate it. What you have done all year long is your gift to Oath Keepers everywhere, and I'm passing it along to our full membership on this Christmas Day.

Merry Christmas Everyone!

-

Salute!

Elias Alias, editor

POSTED BY ELIAS ALIAS AT 8:27 PM

Newer Post

Home

Older Post

Subscribe to: Post Comments \(Atom\)