Ret. Peace Officer Stands by the Constitution

I am a retired, career law enforcement officer. I have a total of 38 years of combined law enforcement and military experience. As a law enforcement officer, I have sworn to defend the United States Constitution.

At this chilling time in our history our Constitution is being shredded by the administration and the Congress, and all of our Constitutional rights are in jeopardy.

A "grassroots" organization, such as Oath Keepers, can continue to organize and grow and, through education, convince law enforcement and military personnel never to use any unconstitutional authority against their fellow Americans.
