I am an AMERICAN

After looking your site over, it dawned on me once again, that American citizens are duty bound. We are all members of the militia, except for those too young or too old, and certain public servants who are exempt. I refer to the men of our country, but past and recent history would also likely include many valorous women as well. I am not active military or a veteran. I am not law enforcement either. I am a medically retired Social Services Case Manager and I was a Special Investigator who dealt only in cases of serious injury or deaths in children. As such, I was considered pseudo Law Enforcement. I investigated allegations of neglect and maltreatment (abuse) concerning this nation's children. They are the one's who are most vulnerable. I worked very closely with many LE agencies on a daily basis. I have never formally taken the oath, but it is burned into my heart and very being because I am an AMERICAN. My children have been reared on the Constitution and God's Word. They were all home-schooled, and this was their daily curriculum. They have been taught how to work and how to fight. They were taught that some things are worth dying for, and some things are worth killing for. I have taken this oath before God, and I too, stand ready to do battle alongside the brave members of oath keepers.

Give me, my children and grand children liberty, or give me death!

May God bless this outfit, and may He bless the USA.
