This video was created for and shown at last month's Oath Keepers Appalachian Mountain Summit in West Virginia. The Summit was a huge success that brought Oath Keepers, III% and patriots from across the country to work and learn together as regional teams. Part of this teamwork was assessing the threats that we are currently facing as Americans. This video was shown to the group to specifically address some of the bigger financial threats that we are facing as a country.

Brandon Smith is the founder and chief strategist behind the Alternative Market Project. His goal is to create a barter networking hub and educational gathering place for every American across the country, who wishes to decouple from our current collapsing financial system and build something better. Getting people out of their homes and meeting face to face to organize meaningful relationships, and eventually, entire free market communities designed to shield cities and states from economic and political danger; this is the mission of the Alternative Market Project. You can get more information and follow Brandon's work at www.Alt-market.com.
